ManageIT
The proactive approach

NORTECH
efficient business solutions

Ever wish you could afford your own IT department so someone else could deal with all the frustrations of your computer network?

Well now you can with a managed services plan. We simply call it ManageIT and it can make your life a whole lot simpler, and save you money in computer support costs. Read on and we'll explain...

Why switch to Managed Computer support instead of just calling when you need help?

Many computer consultants are nothing more than break fix guys. Your computer stops working, they fix it, and then THEY wait until you call them again with another issue. The problem with this set up is that they actually profit when your network goes down or has a problem, because you only call when there are problems. In addition to this, fixing a problem always costs far more than preventing it, and in some cases where there is data corruption or loss, it could cost you far more than you would ever imagine in emergency recovery costs, loss of business, and loss of your critical data and company records.

That is why we offer a proactive approach we call "Manage IT". Fact is, computer networks need on-going maintenance and support to keep them secure and running properly. Ignore this and you will end up with data loss, slow performance, downtime, viruses, spyware, and a host of other problems. To avoid these problems, with "Manage IT" we will monitor and maintain your network for one monthly fee to make sure your data is protected and to dramatically lower the number of technical issues you have. And in the rare case that you do have a problem, we can fix it in about 1/8th of the time because we know your network and can access it remotely.
